b. Provide a complete address for postal delivery and the telephone, fax and email address for the responsible administrative official.

The OHN RHCP Project Coordinator is Kim Lamb. Her contact information is:

2 Centerpointe Drive, Suite 570

Lake Oswego, Oregon 97035

Phone: 503-697-7294

Fax: 503-344-3747

Email: klamb@oregonhealthnet.org

c. Identify the organization that is legally and financially responsible for the conduct of the activities supported by the award.

Oregon Health Network is a 501(c) 3 organization and is responsible for the FCC award.

d. Explain how the project is being coordinated throughout the state or region.

OHN has and continues to actively engage stakeholders at the state and national level in order to elevate and maximize the collaborative efforts and knowledge of key players in health care, health care education, telemedicine/telehealth and policy as it relates to the ongoing health and sustainability of the RHCPPs. OHN has engaged 166 sites to formally join the network, and are strategically leveraging the use and influence of “champion” community health care/education anchor institution participants to drive the use and full adoption of the network. As our participation base has continued to grow, and news of how select OHN participants intend to make full use of their new connection, OHN has successfully crossed the line from what was initially “theory” into one that is a reality. As our growth and momentum builds, and as we transition from pure RHCPP deployment into an organization that centered around customer service and use/adoption of the network, , we are utilizing our new stakeholder council, to identify, vet and recommend future uses and possible OHN hosted applications or services. While it’s proving very difficult to get future use information directly from the providers, for a variety of known reasons, we have identified several underlying use- themes: telemedicine, the adoption of and assistance in meeting the meaningful use of electronic medical records improving the speed/transfer of large image files, expanding referral patterns through intrastate-connection, and the over-arching theme to utilize technology to help patients, families, students receive the highest quality care and education regardless of location – and primarily – by treating patients in the communities in which they live

Additionally, OHN has built and deployed a MS Sharepoint portal system that supports streamlined and transparent administrative and project coordination throughout OHN with our NOC, and with our approved vendors and participating sites. The portal system includes electronic and automated invoicing processes, document management to assist with site audits, access to monthly and real-time NOC reports, and also a message system, including the ability to push emergency messaging and information across the network.

Lastly, OHN is in active and final stage discussions with the California Telehealth Network (CTN) to potentially connect the 2 projects; representing the first such RHCPP projects to connect their networks in full realization of the FCC’s RHCPP vision.

2. Identify all health care facilities included in the network.

- a. Provide address (including county), zip code, Rural Urban Commuting Area (RUCA) code (including primary and secondary), six-digit census tract, and phone number for each health care facility participating in the network.

The information requested is provided in Attachment A.

- b. For each participating institution, indicate whether it is:

- i. Public or non-public;
- ii. Not-for-profit or for-profit;
- iii. An eligible health care provider or ineligible health-care provider with an explanation of why the health care facility is eligible under section 254 of the 1996 Act and the Commission's rules or a description of the type of ineligible health care provider entity.

The information requested is provided in Attachment A.

3. Network Narrative: In the first quarterly report following the completion of the competitive bidding process and the selection of vendors, the selected participant must submit an updated technical description of the communications network that it intends to implement, which takes into account the results its network design studies and negotiations with its vendors. This technical description should provide, where applicable:
- a. Brief description of the backbone network of the dedicated health care network, e.g., MPLS network, carrier-provided VPN, a SONET ring;

See "e" answer below
 - b. Explanation of how health care provider sites will connect to (or access) the network, including the access technologies/services and transmission speeds;

See "e" answer below
 - c. Explanation of how and where the network will connect to a national backbone such as NLR or Internet2;

See "e" answer below
 - d. Number of miles of fiber construction, and whether the fiber is buried or aerial;

See "e" answer below
 - e. Special systems or services for network management or maintenance (if applicable) and where such systems reside or are based.

Prior to OHN, health facilities had two basic choices for data network connectivity. They could lease dedicated lines between pairs of locations they wished to connect or they could use the public Internet. Leased line solutions for data are similar to the earliest days of telephony before the advent of central office telephone switches, when conversations were possible only between two points on the opposite ends of a line. Once central office switches were introduced into telephony, customers only needed one line to the central office switch and could be connected there to any other customer without being required to arrange for lines to every point they wished to connect. OHN provides a similar solution for data networking in Oregon by requiring a high quality of service from each end user location to a common data switching location that all participants can connect to directly. That single broadband connection then permits reliable broadband connectivity with every other end user location connected to the switch with guaranteed high quality of service.

This high quality broadband data connectivity is quite different from that of the public Internet. Because the Internet is not a single network but is the result of interconnecting a large number of independent networks throughout the world, no Internet Service Provider (ISP) can control the quality of service except on its own portion of the complex network. Consequently, all ISP contracts are “best efforts” contracts with no guarantees of the amount or quality of data transport provided. Since all of the major Internet connection points on the west coast of the United States are in California or Washington, almost all Oregon Internet traffic is routed out of state and goes through up to 20 “routers” (the data networking equivalent of telephone switches) before getting from one Oregon destination to another.

The lack of quality of service guarantees for Internet services has made the public Internet unsuitable for real-time medical applications, including telemedicine consults and real time medical education applications. (Health facilities are using the Internet for some of these applications, but the consistent complaints about lack of quality have severely limited the amount of use for these purposes.) The OHN makes it possible to obtain the economic advantages of Internet-like packet switched data transmission and the availability of connections to a very large number of sites, while retaining the quality of service that was previously available only on dedicated leased lines.

The basic OHN technical plan is simple: OHN arranges for its participants to contract with telecommunications vendors to provide a guaranteed amount of guaranteed quality data capacity, in increments of 10 or 100 megabits (Mb) per second, up to 1 gigabit (Gb) per second from each end user location to an Oregon data switching facility in Portland, the Northwest Access Exchange (NWAX), that permits connectivity with any other OHN end user site. NWAX also permits each end user site to connect with many other sites throughout Oregon that already exchange data traffic through NWAX. Thus, one connection from a rural clinic would be sufficient for it to reach any other medical facility in Oregon with high quality service. Even though different telecommunications vendors provide service to different facilities in different parts of the state, the guaranteed availability and quality of service on each link to the central switch will be sufficient to ensure that the end-to-end connection between any two end points will permit reliable real-time medical consultations and procedures.

The OHN Network Operations Center (NOC), operated under contract to OHN by EasyStreet Online Services of Beaverton, Oregon, is monitoring the network in real time to ensure that each telecommunications vendor meets the contractually committed quality of service guarantees on its portion of the network. OHN participants may contact the NOC staff to obtain assistance whenever they have technical network problems. The NOC staff will work with the telecom vendors involved to identify and isolate any problems and determine which telecom vendor is responsible. Without this NOC monitoring capability, individual sites with unsatisfactory service would not be able to prove to their telecom vendors that they were not getting the quality of service they contracted for.

The OHN technical plan also includes potential regional exchanges in Medford in southern Oregon and in Redmond in central Oregon. OHN Request for Proposals (RFP) # 1 resulted in exchanges being selected that offered “no cost to OHN” proposals. These regional exchanges would interconnect OHN traffic in their regions so that data traffic between two points in the region can be connected locally, without being transported to Portland and back. This is similar to local telephone traffic being switched locally, without requiring a long distance connection. This is quite different from Oregon Internet connections, which largely occur out of state, even when the two parties being connected are in the same community.

Connections between OHN and other Oregon networks, including the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) network and the Network for Education and Research in Oregon (NERO), Oregon’s higher education network, are made at NWAX, the OHN Portland exchange facility, where these networks already interconnect. Currently, many education facilities and some rural clinics get their data connectivity through NERO. The DAS connectivity is important for reaching state government facilities and the many county health departments that get their data connectivity through the DAS network.

OHN does not specify whether the data transport services are provided by MPLS, SONET, Ethernet or other means. The end user interfaces are specified as Internet Protocol (IP) over Ethernet, with contractually guaranteed Quality of Service (QoS) with respect to service availability (99.99%), transit delay, packet loss and jitter (variability in time of arrival of data packets). How the carriers transport the data packets and meet their QoS commitments is up to each carrier and may differ from carrier to carrier. Each participant site contracts for the amount of capacity required, in increments of 10 or 100 Mbs, with the amount of capacity contractually committed (not an unenforceable “up to” amount). In other words, each OHN participant contracts for the amount of data transport capacity required at each end user site in the form of a virtual leased line with guaranteed quality of service. All data transport services for OHN are leased from telecommunications vendors. OHN is not constructing any fiber links, buried or aerial.

OHN is revisiting the connection to Internet2 upon a clear understanding of the technical options available to connect them to OHN’s NOC architecture, and confirmation that the drawdown of OHN’s subsidy can support one or both connections.

OHN continues to strive to raise funds for on-going administration and project expenses.
See Attached Statement of Financial Position.

- ii. Identify the respective amounts and remaining time for such assistance.

This question is addressed in the answer above.

d. Explain how the selected participant's minimum 15 percent contribution is helping to achieve both the selected participant's identified goals and objectives and the overarching goals of the Pilot Program.

We have performed multiple surveys to participants IN the RHCPP process, but continue to experience difficulty receiving information from participating sites on their use of the network. Outreach and new survey techniques are a priority to OHN, but resistance on the part of the participants is prevalent, such as that in doing so they believe that they might be providing the network community with information that they consider to be a competitive advantage – or that they're reluctant to share that they don't fully understand the uses and capabilities possible as a result of their new network connection.

For the remainder of the requested information please see Attachment B.

7. Identify any technical or non-technical requirements or procedures necessary for ineligible entities to connect to the participant's network.

At this time, and through a different private foundation funding stream, OHN does anticipate connecting ineligible entities to the network. Specifically, through the proposed grant, we are targeting (25) select radiology labs, physician practices and long-term care facilities which support the continuum of patient care. OHN has applied for this grant opportunity through the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation which would provide initial outreach and flat-rate install and monthly recurring cost funding to these select provider entities.

Additionally, in OHN's intent to identify a streamlined and scalable outreach model for new provider industries like these, these early adopter providers would agree to commit to helping OHN develop winning model, value proposition and annual OHN Participation Fee Structure. If funded, OHN will report upon the progress of this project and new participant base as it's deployed over a three year period.

8. Provide an update on the project management plan, detailing:

a. The project's current leadership and management structure and any changes to the management structure since the last data report;

No changes have been made to the staff or board structure since the last quarterly report.

b. In the first quarterly report, the selected applicant should provide a detailed project plan and schedule. The schedule must provide a list of key project deliverables or tasks, and their anticipated completion dates. Among the deliverables, participants must indicate the dates when each health care provider site is expected to be connected to the network and operational. Subsequent quarterly reports should identify which project deliverables, scheduled for the previous quarter, were met, and which were not met. In the event a project deliverable is not achieved, or the work and deliverables deviate from the work plan, the selected participant must provide an explanation.

In follow up to last quarter's report, the staff and board continue to focus and deliver upon multiple parallel track priorities:

a. FCC RHCPP> Deployment, Fund Raising & Compliance

a. GOAL of 200 SITES: Within the initial FCC RHCPP application and sustainability plan for OHN, OHN's goal was to identify and bring on upwards of 200 participating sites that best leverage and initiate strong "anchor tenant" communities" (hospitals, clinics, community colleges, radiology labs etc) To date, including the 95 current funded sites, we have 166 sites interested in participating in the RHCPP. The ability to now do so has a great amount to do with the FCC officially extending the 6/30/2010 deadline and our success in reducing attrition of those 166 sites. Of these:

- Letter's of Agreement: 242 (See Attachment C)
- Funding Commitment Letters Issued: 95 Sites, 29FCL's
- Activity being monitored by the OHN Network Operations Center: 41

See Attachment D

b. FUNDRAISING: Based upon the sites in our pipeline, we believe that we have enough matching funds to cover the remaining sites. Fundraising for on-going research and development to identify future applications and/or services to run on the network will remain a constant activity, in addition to seeking additional funding for for-profit (in-eligible) (as mentioned above through our RWJF application) providers such as radiology clinics, labs and pharmacies who need to be on the network to support active participants and support the value and viability of the entire network.

See Attachment C.

c. ADVOCACY & GROWTH

a. OHN is seeking additional support from the FCC to achieve 2 objectives:

1. Be granted a 6 month extension (through December 31, 2011) to spend the remaining original awarded subsidy which at this time is estimated to be $3.2 million dollars; and

d. Obtain additional funding to continue the momentum of program deployment and connection of upwards of 300 total sites. The detail and formal requests made from OHN to the FCC have been documented in formal filings

e. FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY

- i. OHN has just completed our 2nd financial audit by our independent accounting firm and obtained a “no material changes” on the management letter. The report from the CPA firm was that OHN had a perfect audit for the 2nd year on a row.

b. Operations > Organizational Development

a. NETWORK OPERATIONS CENTER (NOC): The NOC was officially launched and actively monitoring OHN’s first six (6) sites by the first week of November, 2009. Currently it is monitoring 41 sites. The NOC has been very successful in providing real-time monitoring and issue identification and resolution. As more sites get installed, the value of the NOC will increase.

b. OPERATIONAL INFRASTRUCTURE: A great amount of effort and progress has surrounded the refinement of internal processes surrounding the RHCPP; particularly as they’ve applied to the final deployment and use of OHN’s custom web-based MS Sharepoint portals. These portals, with user based authorized permissions, have been developed and successfully deployed in July to active participating sites, vendors and core administration (staff, board, committees). These web-based portals have been designed to streamline the RHCPP RFP, contract review and highly detailed and manual invoice review/approval processes – as well as to ultimately interface directly with USAC MS Sharepoint systems if allowed. Additional development and enhancement opportunities surround customized content and resources to align with each site’s needs, as well as possible advertising space opportunities and space for carefully selected hardware, software and consulting services as a future revenue stream.

c. COMMUNICATIONS, CUSTOMER SERVICE & USE OF THE NETWORK (vendors & participating sites): In addition to all the web-based process improvement tools outlined above, the staff has created and deployed four (4) rotating webinar Orientations for participants and two (2) for vendors interested in or actively participating in the RHCPP process. Additional orientations are also in the process of development to assist in the use/adoption of the network, and in educating participants on the use/value of the NOC. The goal and purpose in creating these surround efforts to reduce the attrition of sites from the program by better educating and engaging all leadership within each provider organization early on in the process vs. at the end when they’re signing vendor contracts. Additionally, it was designed to help streamline the RHCPP process as a whole which used to be upwards of 6-9 months, and now is around 3-6 from start to finish (FCL). With the pilot program being so interdependent upon all members (sites, OHN, USAC and the vendor), it has proven critical to consistently and proactively educate current and future sites, vendors and strategic partners on the value of OHN as well as the RHCPP process and what they need to do to keep the process moving forward as fast as possible, without impacting others in their RFP. With a staff of 6, and 166 participating sites and 8+ vendors, efficient and proactive customer service and education is critical to OHN's ability to create a positive experience and secure participation. To date, these orientations have been extremely well received and attended, creating significant outreach and understanding of the program.

Additionally, as new sites have their broadband installed and are connected to the OHN Network Operations Center (NOC), it is becoming increasingly apparent that sites (providers) need help learning what to do with the connection once it's lit-up. Therefore, we continue to work on, develop and distribute clarified documentation such as that within our new "welcome packet" which overviews and further educates the sites (providers) on both the value of the network (technology and people), and specifically, suggestions on how to work with the OHN NOC and the site's vendors to get hooked up to the NOC, then to move existing traffic over to the OHN as well as to move current/future applications over to OHN. As more sites come on, we continue to learn the extent to which sites need hand-holding in truly using, leveraging and experiencing the value of the network. Customer service and consulting experience is therefore, becoming increasingly important for OHN and/or a strategic partner of OHN to supply providers. The development of materials like this will no doubt continue as we learn what those needs are, and how we can ensure the network is used to build the momentum of use and interest critical to the value and long-term viability of the network. However, additional networking, business and telemedicine expertise is truly needed for sites on an ongoing basis and OHN will have to learn how to fill that need in a way that is both valuable and sustainable to both the site and OHN.

c. Strategy > Long-term value and sustainability

a. STATE'S HEALTH INFORMATION EXCHANGE SOLUTION: As mentioned in the previous quarter's reports, while the RHCPP rolls out in Oregon through OHN, the State's Health Information Technology Oversight Council (HITOC) has also been working hard to create and implement the State's first Health Information Exchange (HIE) strategy and plan. This has involved and resulted in a massive outreach and stakeholder involvement effort on the part of HITOC; and one of which OHN has been and continues to be greatly involved in and supportive of. Within the plan, OHN is identified in multiple sections as the core broadband network identified to potentially support the State's HIE solution. As a newcomer organization to the scene, OHN has worked hard throughout the year to be part of the State's HIE solution and state-wide discussion, but our efforts and interest in building strong relationships, and educating the community at large, seem to have proven successful at this time. HITOC leadership has embraced OHN, and the critical role we can play as the required and chosen network foundation to support their final HIE solution. The announcement, development and surrounding activity of the State HIE solution has also proven most timely in terms of solidifying and/or expanding the value proposition for OHN's outreach efforts to providers who remain "on the fence." As the State's identified HIE broadband infrastructure "highway," which will support the exchange of electronic health care records and health information exchange across the state, it's proving more important than ever for providers of all sizes to consider joining OHN to transfer/exchange those records on with other OHN participants/members.

b. PLANNING COMMITTEE & STAKEHOLDER COUNCIL: As new participants join the OHN, we're hearing loud and clear "what's next?" They want to know what they can do with their new connection as it relates to developing new referral partnerships, identifying/implementing existing or future telemedicine applications such as video conferencing, or to find out what new application/service OHN can offer. As a convener organization, OHN needs to understand our participants needs and challenges as well as or better than they do. From that knowledge, we can leverage our new Planning Committee and supporting Stake-holder Council to identify future value-added services or applications that fill the gap of need for our participants, and support both OHN and our participant's long term sustainability. The Planning Committee was launched in January 2010, and we have just completed the phase 1 review of our first set of future hosted services/applications on the network to run through the Stakeholder Council. The goal is to make one recommendation to the OHN board by the March board meeting.

c. The following summarizes both the key roles/purpose of both committees:

Planning Committee: 4 OHN Board Members, Exec Dir, 2 volunteers

- Assess potential opportunities for OHN
- Assess risks and challenges for OHN
- Oversee the work of the three stakeholder council workgroups
- Develop draft plans and recommendations in an advisory capacity to the Executive Director and Board of Directors

Stakeholder Council: Statewide application process to fill 7 spots for each workgroup

- Provide strategic input to the Planning Committee and ultimately the board of directors related to the OHN strategic planning effort.
- Through the (3) Stakeholder Workgroups, the Stakeholder Council will have leadership, industry and content expertise in order to effectively and efficiently review potential opportunities and challenges for the organization.
- The Stakeholder Council comprises members who will provide broad geographic and industry representation in each work group drawing from:
 - Health Care
 - Industry
 - Government
 - Education
 - Active Participants

9. Project Model Executive Summary

- After the conclusion of the Rural Health Care Pilot Program (RHCPP), OHN participants will continue to pay annual participation fees to support OHN operations, including common network elements not included in telecommunications vendor charges.
- OHN participants sign participation agreements that include a statement of their intention to continue to participate after the RHCPP is concluded. To date we have received 95 signed Participation Agreements.
- Post RHCPP, OHN participants will continue to be customers of telecommunications vendors for transport links from their sites to the OHN interconnection location. Urban participants will pay their full costs and eligible rural participants will pay the costs not subsidized by the regular Universal Service Fund (USF) rural health care program.
- RHCPP telecommunications vendors paid from RHCPP funds for construction charges to reach rural sites will be required to offer contract renewal options for time periods after the RHCPP.
- OHN will provide centralized administrative support for eligible rural sites to participate in the Standard rural health care program. New competitive procurements will determine whether more cost-effective solutions than those provided by renewal options are available.
- OHN will work to find ways to support participants in the identification and support of their telehealth initiatives. This could be done directly as a value-added service offering, or through a strategic partnership solution.

- Ineligible parties will pay 100% of their costs for connecting to OHN exchanges and will pay 100% of the charges for their use of the OHN network operations center (NOC). No transport or NOC services paid for with USAC subsidy will be available to ineligible parties.

10. Provide detail on how the supported network has advanced telemedicine benefits:

- Explain how the supported network has achieved the goals and objectives outlined in selected participant's Pilot Program application;
See below
- Explain how the supported network has brought the benefits of innovative telehealth and, in particular, telemedicine services to those areas of the country where the need for those benefits is most acute;
See below
- Explain how the supported network has allowed patients access to critically needed medical specialists in a variety of practices without leaving their homes or communities;
See below
- Explain how the supported network has allowed health care providers access to government research institutions, and/or academic, public, and private health care institutions that are repositories of medical expertise and information;
See below
- Explain how the supported network has allowed health care professional to monitor critically ill patients at multiple locations around the clock, provide access to advanced applications in continuing education and research, and/or enhanced the health care community's ability to provide a rapid and coordinated response in the event of a national crisis.

Please refer to Attachment B

11. Provide detail on how the supported network has complied with HHS health IT initiatives:

- Explain how the supported network has used health IT systems and products that meet interoperability standards recognized by the HHS Secretary;
See below
- Explain how the supported network has used health IT products certified by the Certification Commission for Healthcare Information Technology;

Fall of 2010 has produced a significant number of OHN participants going through the RFP and contracting process and obtaining their funding commitment letters. Through our outreach efforts, OHN continues to learn and understand what providers intend to use the network for. Some are very sophisticated and clear in what applications and intended uses of the network. Others are still very unclear, and from their lack of clarity, OHN is working to identify strategic partnerships, best practices and communications solutions to assist sites in developing sound strategies for the network. An overview of what we learned the intended uses to be in the spring survey effort included but were not limited to:

- Telemedicine & HIT Applications
 - Utilize video conference technology for training or consultations
 - Utilize new technologies dependent upon high-speed, reliable broadband technology
 - Most common uses/interests:
 - Continuing medical education (CME)
 - Diagnosis (tele-radiology; mental health, routine clinical consultations)
 - Emergency consultation & triage
 - Follow-up
 - Administrative
- Operational Efficiency
 - Improve file transfer times
 - Ability to bring in services from other partners that were previously unavailable due to bandwidth constraints
 - Faster and more reliable connectivity to data center/server locations for improved processing times
- Increase and/or Improve upon State-wide Referral Patterns
 - Hospitals
 - Clinics
 - Payers
 - Public Health
 - Community Colleges
 - Allied Health/Long-term Care Facilities
 - Pharmacies

Outside of survey and outreach efforts, the board of directors added a new board seat for the Department of Health Services (to be named the Oregon Health Authority). The purpose of this added board seat was to better align the State's HIT/HIE efforts to that of OHN and our infrastructure and future application deployment efforts to that of the State – specifically as it relates to the national strategy. Additionally, the newly formed Planning Committee and Stakeholder Council will be assigned the core responsibility of addressing interoperability requirements between OHN as an RHCPP to other RHCPP's, and to other State network infrastructures and system strategies including emergency response and disaster preparedness.

c. Explain how the supported network has supported the Nationwide Health Information Network (NHIN) architecture by coordinating activities with organizations performing NHIN trial implementations;

- In these critical first two and a half years of getting participants through the RHCPP process and on the network, no direct/active effort has yet been made to address the NHIN architecture. Having said that, preliminary research and discussions have taken place both internally within OHN, and with the State as the State clarifies and implements it's HIE solution which currently leverages the NHIN architecture.

d. Explain how the supported network has used resources available at HHS's Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) National Resource Center for Health Information Technology;

See response to 11a and b above.

e. Explain how the selected participant has educated themselves concerning the Pandemic and All Hazards Preparedness Act and coordinated with the HHS Assistant Secretary for Public Response as a resource for telehealth inventory and for the implementation of other preparedness and response initiatives; and

f. Explain how the supported network has used resources available through HHS's Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Public Health Information Network (PHIN) to facilitate interoperability with public health and emergency organizations.

12. Explain how the selected participants coordinated in the use of their health care networks with the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and, in particular, with its Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in instances of national, regional, or local public health emergencies (e.g., pandemics, bioterrorism). In such instances, where feasible, explain how selected participants provided access to their supported networks to HHS, including CDC, and other public health officials.

There are two areas that OHN has focused upon to meet these core goals of the RHCPP:

1. Governance and membership composition restructure that includes the addition of a Department of Health Services (newly named Oregon Health Authority) board seat. This will be critical in better communicating and aligning OHN's goals and objectives to that of the State's.
2. Development and launch of both the Planning Committee and Stakeholder Council; of which government agency expertise is sought at the clinical, IT and business/finance levels across the state. As a result of our recent launch of our MS Sharepoint portal system for board, committee, staff, site and vendors – OHN has a technological communication framework that could easily be used with HHS and CDC etc. to post and distribute national alerts through the OHN community state-wide ability through our newly developed OHN Portal to quickly contact all participating sites in case of a national, regional, or local public health emergency.

Thank you.
